Howell, appointed a Senator, for the term of six years, commencing on the fourth day of March last, by the legislature of the state of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations; the Honorable Joseph B. Varnum, appointed a Senator by the legislature of the state of Massachusetts, for the term of six years, commencing on the fourth day of March last; respectively produced their credentials, which were read, and the oath prescribed by law was administered to them, and they took their seats in the Senate.

The oath was also administered to Messrs. Condit, Crawford, Giles, Gilman, and Taylor, their credentials having been read and filed during the last session.

On motion, by Mr. Anderson,

Ordered, That the Secretary acquaint the House of Representatives that a quorum of the Senate is assembled and ready to proceed to business.

On motion, by Mr. Franklin,

Resolved, That each Senator be supplied, during the present session, with three such newspapers printed in any of the states as he may choose, provided that the same be furnished at the usual rate for the annual charge of such papers: and provided, also that if any Senator shall choose to take any newspapers other than daily papers, he shall be supplied with as many such papers as shall not exceed the price of three daily papers.

On motion, by Mr. Gregg,

Resolved, That the Senate will, to-morrow, at twelve o'clock, proceed to a choice of a Doorkeeper, who shall also discharge the duty of Sergeant-at-Arms.

Mr. Taylor presented the memorial of Joseph Wheaton, praying remuneration for services rendered the United States in the Revolutionary war, and compensation for losses sustained therein.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. Magruder, their Clerk:

Mr. President: I am directed to inform the Senate that a quorum of the House of Representatives is assembled, and have elected Henry Clay, Esq. one of the Representatives from the state of Kentucky, their Speaker, and are ready to proceed to business. They have appointed a committee on their part, jointly, with such committee as may be appointed on the part of the Senate, to wait on the President of the United States and notify him that a quorum of the two Houses is assembled and ready to receive any communications that he may be pleased to make to them. And he withdrew.

On motion, by Mr. Anderson,

Resolved, That the Senate do concur in the appointment of a joint committee on their part, agreeably to the resolution last mentioned; and Ordered, That Messrs. Anderson and Gaillard be the committee.

Ordered, That the Secretary notify the House of Representatives accordingly.

On motion,

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1811.

The Honorable Richard Brent, from the state of Virginia, attended.

Mr. Anderson reported, from the joint committee, that they had waited on the President of the United States, agreeably to order, and that the President informed the committee that he would make a communication to the two Houses this day, at twelve 12 o'clock.

On motion, by Mr. Leib,

Resolved, That a committee be appointed agreeably to the forty-second rule for conducting business in the Senate; and,

Ordered, That Messrs. Leib, Franklin, and Cutts, be the committee.

On motion, by Mr. Gilman,

Resolved, That a committee be appointed agreeably to the 22d rule for conducting business in the Senate; and Ordered, That Messrs. Gilman, Campbell, of Tennessee, and Bibb, be the committee.

On motion, by Mr. Franklin,

The Senate proceeded to the election of a door-keeper, agreeably to the resolution of yesterday, and the whole number of ballots collected was 27, of which Mountjoy Bayly had 20, and was accordingly elected in the place of James Mathers, deceased.

The following written message was received from the President of the United States, by Mr. Coles, his Secretary:

Fellow citizens of the Senate and of the House of Representatives:

In calling you together sooner than a separation from your homes would otherwise have been required, I yielded to considerations drawn from the posture of our foreign affairs; and in fixing the present, for the time of your meeting, regard was had to the probability of further developments of the policy of the belligerent powers towards this country, which might the more unite the national councils in the measures to be pursued.

At the close of the last session of Congress, it was hoped that the successive confirmations of the extinction of the French decrees, so far as they violated our neutral commerce, would have induced the government of Great Britain to repeal its orders in council, and thereby authorize a removal of the existing obstructions to her commerce with the United States.

Instead of this reasonable step towards satisfaction and friendship between the two nations, the orders were, at a moment when least to have been expected, put into more rigorous execution; and it was communicated through the British envoy just arrived, that, whilst the revocation of the edicts of France, as officially made known to the British government, was denied to have taken place, it was an indispensable condition of the repeal of the British orders that commerce should be restored to a footing that would admit the productions and manufactures of Great Britain, when owned by neutrals, into markets shut against them by her enemy: the United States being given to understand that, in the mean time, a continuance of their non-importation act would lead to measures of retaliation.

At a later date, it has indeed appeared, that a communication to the British government, of fresh evidence of the repeal of the French decrees against our neutral trade, was followed by an intimation that it had been transmitted to the British plenipotentiary here, in order that it might receive full consideration in the depending discussions. This communication appears not to have been received: but the transmission of it hither, instead of founding on it an actual repeal of the orders, or assurances that the repeal would ensue, will not permit us to rely on any effective change in the British cabinet. To be ready to meet with cordiality satisfactory proofs of such a change, and to proceed, in the mean time, in adapting our measures to the views which have been disclosed through that minister, will best consult our whole duty.

In the unfriendly spirit of those disclosures, indemnity and redress for other wrongs have continued to be withheld; and our coasts, and the mouths of our harbors, have again witnessed scenes not less derogatory to the dearest of our national rights, than vexatious to the regular course of our trade.

Among the occurrences produced by the conduct of British ships of war hovering on our coasts, was an encounter between one of them, and the American frigate commanded by captain Rodgers, rendered unavoidable on the part of the latter, by a fire, commenced without cause, by the former; whose commander is, therefore, alone chargeable with the blood unfortunately shed in maintaining the honor of the American flag. The proceedings of a court of inquiry, requested by captain Rodgers, are communicated, together with the correspondence relating to the occurrence between the Secretary of State and his Britannic Majesty's envoy. To these are added the several correspondences which have passed on the subject of the British orders in council; and to both, the correspondence relating to the Floridas, in which Congress will be made acquainted with the interposition which the government of Great Britain has thought proper to make against the proceeding of the United States.

The justice and fairness which have been evinced on the part of the United States towards France, both before and since the revocation of her decrees, authorized an expectation that her government would have followed up that measure by all such others as were due to our reasonable claims, as well as dictated by its amicable professions. No proof, however, is yet given of an intention to repair the other wrongs done to the United States, and particularly to restore the great amount of American property seized and condemned under edicts, which, though not affecting our neutral relations, and, therefore, not entering into questions between the United States and other belligerents, were, nevertheless, founded in such unjust principles that the reparation ought to have been prompt and ample.

In addition to this and other demands of strict right on that nation, the United States have much reason to be dissatisfied with the rigorous and unexpected restrictions to which their trade with the French dominions has been subjected; and which, if not discontinued, will require at least corresponding restrictions on importations from France into the United States.

On all those subjects, our minister plenipotentiary, lately sent to Paris, has carried with him the necessary instructions; the result of which will be communicated to you, and by ascertaining the ulterior policy of the French government towards the United States, will enable you to adapt to it that of the United States towards France.

Our other foreign relations remain without unfavorable changes. With Russia they are on the best footing of friendship. The ports of Sweden have afforded proofs of friendly dispositions towards our commerce in the councils of that nation also. And the information from our special minister to Denmark, shews that the mission had been attended with valuable effects to our citizens, whose property had been so extensively violated and endangered by cruisers under the Danish flag.

Under the ominous indications which commanded attention, it became a duty to exert the means committed to the executive department in providing for the general security. The works of defence on our maritime frontier have accordingly been prosecuted with an activity leaving little to be added for the completion of the most important ones; and, as particularly suited for co-operation in emergencies, a portion of the gun-boats have, in particular harbors, been ordered into use. The ships of war before in commission, with the addition of a frigate, have been chiefly employed as a cruising guard to the rights of our coast. And such a disposition has been made of our land forces, as was thought to promise the services most appropriate and important. In this disposition is included a force, consisting of regulars and militia, embodied in the Indiana territory, and marched towards our northwestern frontier. This measure was made requisite by several murders and depredations committed by Indians, but more especially by the menacing preparations and aspect of a combination of them on the Wabash, under the influence and direction of a fanatic of the Shawanese tribe. With these exceptions, the Indian tribes retain their peaceable dispositions towards us, and their usual pursuits.

I must now add, that the period is arrived which claims from the legislative guardians of the national rights a system of more ample provisions for maintaining them. Notwithstanding the scrupulous justice, the protracted moderation, and the multiplied efforts, on the part of the United States, to substitute for the accumulating dangers to the peace of the two countries, all the mutual advantages of re-established friendship and confidence, we have seen that the British cabinet perseveres not only in withholding a remedy for other wrongs, so long and so loudly calling for it, but in the execution, brought home to the threshold of our territory, of measures which, under existing circumstances, have the character, as well as the effect, of war on our lawful commerce.

With this evidence of hostile inflexibility, in trampling on rights which no independent nation can relinquish, Congress will feel the duty of putting the United States into an armor and an attitude demanded by the crisis, and corresponding with the national spirit and expectations.

I recommend, accordingly, that adequate provision be made for filling the ranks and prolonging the enlistments of the regular troops; for an auxiliary force, to be engaged for a more limited term; for the acceptance of volunteer corps, whose patriotic ardor may court a participation in urgent services; for detachments, as they may be wanted, of other portions of the militia; and for such a preparation of the great body as will proportion its usefulness to its intrinsic capacities. Nor can the occasion fail to remind you of the importance of those military seminaries, which, in every event, will form a valuable and frugal part of our military establishment.

The manufacture of cannon and small arms has proceeded with due success; and the stock and resources of all the necessary munitions are adequate to emergencies. It will not be inexpedient, however, for Congress to authorize an enlargement of them.

Your attention will of course be drawn to such provisions on the subject of our naval force, as may be required for the services to which it may be best adapted. I submit to Congress the seasonableness, also, of an authority to augment the stock of such materials as are imperishable in their nature, or may not at once be attainable.

In contemplating the scenes which distinguish this momentous epoch, and estimating their claims to our attention, it is impossible to overlook those developing themselves among the great communities which occupy the southern portion of our own hemisphere, and extend into our neighborhood. An enlarged philanthropy, and an enlightened forecast, concur in imposing on the national councils an obligation to take a deep interest in their destinies; to cherish reciprocal sentiments of good will; to regard the progress of events; and not to be unprepared for whatever order of things may be ultimately established.

Under another aspect of our situation, the early attention of Congress will be due to the expediency of further guards against evasions and infractions of our commercial laws. The practice of smuggling, which is odious every where, and particularly criminal in free governments, where, the laws being made by all for the good of all, a fraud is committed on every individual as well as on the state, attains its utmost guilt when it blends, with a pursuit of ignominious gain, a treacherous subserviency in the transgressors to a foreign policy, adverse to that of their own country. It is then that the virtuous indignation of the public should be enabled to manifest itself through the regular animadversions of the most competent laws.

To secure greater respect to our mercantile flag, and to the honest interests which it covers, it is expedient also that it be made punishable in our citizens to accept licences from foreign governments for a trade unlawfully interdicted by them to other American citizens; or to trade under false colors or papers of any sort.

A prohibition is equally called for against the acceptance, by our citizens, of special licences to be used in a trade with the United States; and against the admission into particular ports of the United States of vessels from foreign countries authorized to trade with particular ports only.

Although other subjects will press more immediately on your deliberations, a portion of them cannot but be well bestowed on the just and sound policy of securing to our manufactures the success they have attained, and are still attaining, in some degree, under the impulse of causes not permanent; and to our navigation the fair extent of which it is at present abridged by the unequal regulations of foreign governments.

Besides the reasonableness of saving our manufactures from sacrifices which a change of circumstances might bring on them, the national interest requires that, with respect to such articles at least as belong to our defence and our primary wants, we should not be left in unnecessary dependence on external supplies. And whilst foreign governments adhere to the existing discriminations in their ports against our navigation, and an equality or lesser discrimination is enjoyed by their navigation in our ports, the effect cannot be mistaken, because it has been seriously felt by our shipping interests; and in proportion as this takes place, the advantages of an independent conveyance of our products to foreign markets, and of a growing body of mariners, trained by their occupations for the service of their country in times of danger, must be diminished.

The receipts into the Treasury during the year ending on the thirtieth of September last, have exceeded thirteen millions and a half of dollars, and have enabled us to defray the current expenses, including the interest on the public debt, and to reimburse more than five millions of dollars of the principal, without recurring to the loan authorized by the act of the last session. The temporary loan obtained in the latter end of the year one thousand eight hundred and ten, has also been reimbursed, and is not included in that amount.

The decrease of revenue arising from the situation of our commerce and the extraordinary expenses which have and may become necessary, must be taken into view, in making commensurate provisions for the ensuing year. And I recommend to your consideration the propriety of ensuring a sufficiency of annual revenue, at least to defray the ordinary expenses of government, and to pay the interest on the public debt, including that on new loans which may be authorized.

I cannot close this communication without expressing my deep sense of the crisis in which you are assembled, my confidence in a wise and honorable result to your deliberations, and assurances of the faithful zeal with which my co-operating duties will be discharged; invoking, at the same time, the blessing of Heaven on our beloved country, and on all the means that may be employed in vindicating its rights and advancing its welfare.

JAMES MADISON.

Washington, November 5, 1811.

The message and part of the documents therein referred to were read.

On motion, by Mr. Anderson,

Ordered, That three hundred copies of the message and of the documents, so far as they have been read, be printed for the use of the Senate.

On motion,

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

On motion,

Resolved, That Mr. Varnum be of the committee for enrolled bills, jointly with such committee as may be appointed for that purpose on the part of the House of Representatives.

Ordered, That the Secretary notify the House of Representatives accordingly.

The President communicated a resolution of the Republican Corresponding Society, met at Brookville, in the Indiana territory, enjoining it on their delegate in Congress to use his exertions in favor of a law authorizing the people of that territory to elect their sheriffs and magistrates once in two years; which was read.

Mr. Smith, of Maryland, gave notice that on Monday he should ask leave to bring in a bill making further provision for the corps of engineers.

The Senate resumed the consideration of the motion submitted yesterday, "that so much of the message of the President of the United States as concerns the relations between the United States and France and Great Britain, with the accompanying documents, be referred to a select committee, with instructions to examine and report thereon to the Senate; and that the committee have leave to report by bill, bills, or otherwise;" and having agreed thereto, Ordered, That Messrs. Giles, Crawford, Gregg, Franklin, Lloyd, Bradley, and Pope, be the committee.

The following written message was received from the President of the United States, by Mr. Coles, his Secretary:

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States:

I now lay before Congress two letters to the Department of State, one from the present plenipotentiary of France, the other from his predecessor, which were not included among the documents accompanying my message of the 5th instant, the translation of them being not then completed.

JAMES MADISON.

November 7, 1811.

The message and letters therein referred to were read.

On motion,

It was agreed that twelve hundred and fifty copies thereof be printed for the use of the Senate, and annexed to the documents with the message of the 5th instant.

The Senate resumed the consideration of the motion submitted yesterday, "that so much of the message of the President of the United States as relates to the evasions and infractions of the commercial laws thereof, be referred to a select committee, with instructions to examine into the subject and report thereon to the Senate, and that the committee have leave to report by bill, bills, or otherwise;" and having agreed thereto, Ordered, That Messrs. Smith, of Maryland, Taylor, Gilman, Goodrich, and Anderson, be the committee.

On motion, by Mr. Anderson,

The consideration of the other resolutions submitted yesterday was postponed to Monday.

On motion,

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock on Monday morning.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1811.

The Honorable James Turner, appointed a Senator by the legislature of the state of North Carolina, for the term of six years, commencing on the fourth day of March last, produced his credentials; which were read, and the oath prescribed by law was administered to him, and he took his seat in the Senate.

Pursuant to notice given, Mr. Leib asked and obtained leave to bring in a bill to authorize the transportation of certain documents free of postage, and the bill was read the first and second time by unanimous consent; and,

On the question, Shall this bill be engrossed and read a third time?

It was determined in the affirmative.

The Senate resumed the consideration of the motion of the 7th instant, "that so much of the message of the President of the United States as relates to the manufactures thereof, be referred to a select committee, with instructions to examine into that subject, and report thereon to the Senate, and that the committee have leave to report by bill, bills, or otherwise;" and having agreed to the motion, Ordered, That Messrs. Varnum, Worthington, Bradley, Condit, and Dana, be the committee.

The consideration of the other resolution submitted the 7th instant was further postponed.

The Senate resumed the consideration of the motion made on the 8th instant, "that so much of the message of the President of the United States as relates to Indian affairs be referred to a select committee, with instructions to examine into that subject, and report thereon to the Senate; and that the committee have leave to report by bill, bills, or otherwise;" and having agreed thereto, Ordered, That Messrs. Worthington, Pope, Campbell, of Tennessee, Crawford, and Gregg, be the committee.

The Senate resumed the motion made the 8th instant, for the appointment of chaplains; and,

Ordered, That the Secretary request the concurrence of the House of Representatives in this resolution.

Mr. Bradley presented the petition of the Directors of the Washington Canal Company, praying to be empowered by law to raise the sum of 52,500 dollars by small annual lotteries, as authorized by an act of the legislature of the state of Maryland, of November, 1795, to enable them to complete the canal, and to drain the ground through which it runs; and the petition was read; and,

Ordered, That it lie on the table.

Mr. Lloyd presented the memorial and petition of J. and E. Phillips, and others, citizens of the United States, resident in Boston, in the district of Massachusetts, importers of iron and other hardwares from England, praying that provision may be made by law for the importation of such goods, wares, and merchandise, as were by them bona fide purchased on or before the second day of February last, in the dominions of Great Britain; or such other relief as the wisdom and justice of Congress may devise; and the petition was read; and Ordered, That it lie on the table.

On motion,

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1811.

The Honorable Alexander Campbell, from the state of Ohio, took his seat in the Senate.

Mr. Giles presented the petition of Larkin Smith, collector of the district of Norfolk and Portsmouth, in Virginia, praying additional compensation, for reasons stated at large in his petition; which was read.

On motion, by Mr. Giles,

Resolved, That it be referred to a select committee, to consider and report thereon by bill or otherwise.

Ordered, That Messrs. Giles, Smith, of Maryland, and Bradley, be the committee.

Mr. Gilman, from the committee, reported the bill to authorize the transportation of certain documents free of postage correctly engrossed; and,

On motion, by Mr. Leib,

The further consideration thereof was postponed until to-morrow.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. Magruder, their Clerk:

Mr. President: The House of Representatives have passed a bill, entitled "An act to authorize the transportation of certain documents free of postage;" in which they desire the concurrence of the Senate. They concur in the resolution of the Senate of the 8th instant, for the appointment of a committee for enrolled bills, and have appointed a committee on their part. They also concur in the resolution of the Senate of the 11th instant, for the appointment of chaplains. And he withdrew.

The bill brought up for concurrence was twice read by unanimous consent; and,

Ordered, That it pass to the third reading.

Pursuant to notice given, Mr. Smith, of Maryland, asked and obtained leave to bring in a bill making further provision for the corps of engineers; and the bill was read; and,

Ordered, That it pass to the second reading.

On motion, by Mr. Bradley,

Resolved, That the petition of the President and Directors of the Washington Canal Company, presented yesterday, be referred to a select committee, to consider and report thereon by bill or otherwise; and,

Ordered, That Messrs. Bradley, Smith, of Maryland, and Gaillard, be the committee.

On motion, by Mr. Lloyd,

Resolved, That the petition of J. and E. Phillips, and others, presented yesterday, be referred to a select committee, to consider and report thereon by bill or otherwise; and,

Ordered, That Messrs. Lloyd, Bradley, and Franklin, be the committee.

On motion, by Mr. Varnum,

It was agreed, that the Senate will to-morrow at 12 o'clock, proceed to the election of a chaplain on their part, in pursuance of the resolution of the two Houses.

On motion,

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1811.

After the consideration of the Executive business,

The President communicated the memorial of Matthew Lyon, stating that he was fined and imprisoned under the law commonly called the sedition act, and praying remission of the fine, for reasons stated at large in his memorial; which was read.

The bill making further provision for the corps of engineers was read the second time.

On motion, by Mr. Smith, of Maryland,

Resolved, That it be referred to a select committee, to consider and report thereon; and,

Ordered, That Messrs. Smith, of Maryland, Anderson, Bradley, Crawford, and German, be the committee.

Mr. Bradley gave notice that to-morrow he should ask leave to bring in a bill for the relief of Charles Minifie.

The bill from the House of Representatives, entitled "An act to authorize the transportation of certain documents free of postage," was read the third time.

Resolved, That this bill pass.

Ordered, That the Secretary acquaint the House of Representatives with the concurrence of the Senate in this bill.

On motion, by Mr. Bradley,

The bill originating in the Senate to authorize the transportation of certain documents free of postage, was postponed to the first Monday in December next.

Agreeably to assignment, the Senate proceeded to the election of a chaplain to Congress on their part, in pursuance of the resolution of the two Houses; and, on counting the ballots, it appeared that the Reverend John Breckinridge had a majority, and was accordingly elected.

Ordered, That the Secretary notify the House of Representatives accordingly.

Mr. Smith, of Maryland, submitted the following motion for consideration:

Resolved, That the President of the United States be requested to cause to be laid before this House, information whether tobacco of the growth of the United States may be purchased by the regie to the full extent of the consumption of France; if not, in what proportion may such tobacco be purchased by the regie; whether the supplies of tobacco imported into France (and which may be transported through France into Germany and other European states) is subjected to a transit duty; if so, what is the amount of such duty. And, also, to cause to be laid before this House a tariff of the duties imposed by France on such of the produce and manufactures of the United States the entry of which is permitted, and particularly of tobacco, cotton, fish oil, and dried fish, and stating (if any) the difference of duty charged on such goods imported from the United States, and similar articles when introduced into France from other states, either over land or otherwise.

Mr. Worthington submitted the following motion for consideration:

Resolved, That a committee be appointed to inquire if any, and, if any, what, further provisions or alterations are necessary for the disposition of the public lands of the United States, and that they have leave to report by bill or otherwise.

On motion,

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 1811.

The Senate resumed the motion made yesterday, by Mr. Smith, of Maryland; and,

On motion, by Mr. Lloyd,

It was agreed that the further consideration thereof be postponed until to-morrow.

The Senate resumed the motion made yesterday, by Mr. Worthington; and,

Ordered, That Messrs. Worthington, Franklin, Gregg, Goodrich, and Bradley, be the committee.

Agreeably to notice given, Mr. Bradley asked and obtained leave to bring in a bill for the relief of Charles Minifie; and the bill was read and passed to a second reading.

The following written message was received from the President of the United States, by Mr. Coles, his Secretary:

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States:

I communicate to Congress copies of a correspondence between the envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of Great Britain and the Secretary of State, relative to the aggression committed by a British ship of war on the United States' frigate Chesapeake, by which it will be seen that that subject of difference between the two countries is terminated by an offer of reparation, which has been acceded to.

JAMES MADISON.

Washington, November 13, 1811.

The message and papers therein referred to were read.

Ordered, That they lie on the table.

The following written message was also received from the President of the United States, by Mr. Coles, his Secretary:

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States:

I lay before Congress the result of the census lately taken of the inhabitants of the United States, with a letter from the Secretary of State relative thereto.

JAMES MADISON.

November 13, 1811.

The message and documents therein referred to were read.

Ordered, That they lie on the table.

After the consideration of the Executive business,

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1811.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. Magruder, their Clerk:

Mr. President: The House of Representatives have appointed the Reverend Mr. Snethen chaplain to Congress for the present session, on their part.

They have appointed Mr. Turner of the committee for enrolled bills in place of Mr. Anderson excused. And he withdrew.

Mr. Varnum reported, from the committee, that they had examined and found duly enrolled the bill, entitled "An act to authorize the transportation of certain documents free of postage."

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States:

I lay before Congress two letters received from Governor Harrison, of the Indiana territory, reporting the particulars and the issue of the expedition under his command, of which notice was taken in my communication of November 5th.

Mr. Varnum reported, from the committee, that they had examined and found duly enrolled the bill, entitled "An act for the apportionment of representatives among the several states, according to the third enumeration."

Mr. Worthington presented the petition of Submit R. Strong, widow of Major Elijah Strong, late of the army of the United States, on behalf of herself and three infant children; stating that her husband, while in the service of the United States, died of a malignant fever, leaving her and his children in very indigent circumstances; and praying that the half-pay, or pension, that would have been allowed the representatives of the deceased, had he died by a wound, or wounds, received in actual service, may be extended to her, for reasons stated at large in the petition; which was read and ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. Worthington presented the petition of Amos Spafford, stating that he hath improved a certain portion of the public land near the foot of the rapids, on the south side of the Miami, and praying that a law may be passed permitting him to locate a quarter section of land, covering his improvements, at the price of other public lands, when exposed to sale; for reasons stated at large in the petition.

Mr. Worthington also presented the petition of Lewis Bond and others, residing on the Miami river, praying that they may be confirmed in their possessions of certain lands therein mentioned, for reasons stated at large in the petition; and the petitions were severally read.

Ordered, That they be severally referred to the committee appointed the 14th of November, to inquire if any, and, if any, what, further provisions or alterations are necessary for the distribution of the public lands of the United States, to consider and report thereon by bill or otherwise.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. Magruder, their Clerk:

Mr. President: The Speaker of the House of Representatives having signed an enrolled bill, I am directed to bring it to the Senate for the signature of their President. The House of Representatives concur in the bill, entitled "An act for completing the existing military establishment." And he withdrew.

The President signed the enrolled bill last reported to have been examined, and it was delivered to the committee, to be laid before the President of the United States.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 24, 1811.

Mr. German presented the memorial of Gouverneur Morris, and others, commissioners, appointed by an act of the legislature of the state of New York, for the consideration of all matters relating to the opening a canal navigation between the great lakes and Hudson's river, praying the co-operation and aid of Congress in the contemplated work, for reasons stated at large in the memorial; which was read.

On motion, by Mr. German,

Ordered, That it be referred to the committee to whom was referred, on the 6th instant, the memorial of the President and Managers of the Union Canal Company of Pennsylvania, with the addition of two members, to consider and report thereon by bill or otherwise; and,

Ordered, That Messrs. Crawford and German be added to the committee.

The following written message was received from the President of the United States, by Mr. Coles, his Secretary:

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States:

I communicate to Congress copies of an act of the legislature of New York, relating to a canal from the great lakes to Hudson's river. In making the communication, I consult the respect due to that state, in whose behalf the commissioners appointed by the act have placed it in my hands for the purpose.

The utility of canal navigation is universally admitted. It is not less certain, that scarcely any country offers more extensive opportunities for that branch of improvements than the United States; and none, perhaps, inducements equally persuasive to make the most of them. The particular undertaking contemplated by the state of New York, which marks an honorable spirit of enterprise, and comprises objects of national as well as more limited importance, will recal the attention of Congress to the signal advantages to be derived to the United States from a general system of internal communication and conveyance; and suggest to their consideration whatever steps may be proper, on their part, towards its introduction and accomplishment. As some of those advantages have an intimate connection with arrangements and exertions for the general security, it is at a period calling for these that the merits of such a system will be seen in the strongest lights.

JAMES MADISON.

Washington, December 23, 1811.

The message and documents therein referred to were read; and,

On motion, by Mr. German,

Ordered, That they be referred to the committee last mentioned, to consider and report thereon.

The President communicated the memorial of certain citizens and inhabitants of the territory of Michigan, stating their very exposed situation in the vicinity of the Indians, and requesting the interposition of government for their protection; and the memorial was read.

The President also communicated the memorial of the legislature of the Indiana territory, praying grants of land, respectively, to the legal representatives of such officers and soldiers as fell in the late action under Governor Harrison's command, some of whom had heretofore made locations of land, partial payments, and improvements thereon; also, to each of the surviving officers and soldiers of said corps such donation in land as Congress may deem expedient; and the memorial was read.

A message from the President of the United States, by Mr. Coles, his Secretary:

Mr. President: The President of the United States, on the 24th instant, approved and signed "An act for completing the existing military establishment."

Ordered, That the Secretary notify the House of Representatives accordingly.

The following written message was also received from the President of the United States, by Mr. Coles, his Secretary:

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States:

I lay before Congress copies of resolutions entered into by the legislature of Pennsylvania, which have been transmitted to me, with that view, by the governor of that state, in pursuance of one of the said resolutions.

JAMES MADISON.

Washington, December 27, 1811.

The message and resolutions therein referred to were read.

Ordered, That they lie on the table.

Mr. German presented the memorial of Isaiah Townsend, and others, stating that, in the year 1811, the memorialists, at great expense, built two boats, under a conviction that they had a right thereto by the existing laws of the United States, for the purpose of plying between New York and Albany, and which they have done successfully; and praying a bill on the subject of steam-boats, now before the Senate, may not pass, for reasons stated at large in the memorial; which was read; and,

On motion, by Mr. Bayard,

Ordered, That the memorial be printed for the use of the Senate.

Mr. Leib presented the memorial of Oliver Evans, stating that the memorialist verily believes himself to be the original proposer of steam-boats and steam-wagons in the United States, (Doctor Franklin only excepted;) and that he conceives his patent, dated February 14th, 1804, secured to him the right to use his engine for boats, mills, and land carriages, and praying to be left in full possession of those rights, for reasons stated at large in the memorial; which was read.

Ordered, That it lie on the table.

On motion, by Mr. Lloyd,

It was agreed that the further consideration of the bill for the establishment of a quartermaster's department be postponed until Tuesday next.

After the consideration of Executive business,

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock on Monday morning; to which time the several orders of the day were postponed.

MONDAY, DECEMBER 30, 1811.

On motion, by Mr. Howell,

Resolved, That it be referred to a select committee, to consider and report thereon by bill or otherwise.

Ordered, That Messrs. Howell, Gregg, and Bradley, be the committee.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. Magruder, their Clerk:

Mr. President: The House of Representatives have passed a bill, entitled "An act to continue in force, for a further time, the first section of the act, entitled 'An act further to protect the commerce and seamen of the United States against the Barbary powers;' also, a bill, entitled "An act directing the terms on which lands sold at public sale, and that revert for failure in payment, shall again be sold;" in which bills they desire the concurrence of the Senate. And he withdrew.

The bills last mentioned were read.

Ordered, That they severally pass to the second reading.

Mr. Bayard presented the petition of the President and Trustees of the Philadelphia and Wilmington Steam Boat Company, stating that they are desirous of establishing a daily packet, to be propelled by steam, to ply between Philadelphia, Brandywine, and Christiana creek: that they have it in their power to obtain an engineer, who is an alien, to conduct and superintend the work, upon being admitted to receive a share of the net profits; that a boat of the size and form contemplated would be subject to the same rules and regulations as if employed in the foreign or coasting trade, which exclude an alien, who is the constructor or projector, from a share of the boat or profits, and that they will be deprived of the aid of this artist without the interposition of Congress; and praying relief; and the petition was read.

On motion, by Mr. Bayard,

Resolved, That it be referred to a select committee, to consider and report thereon, by bill or otherwise.

Ordered, That Messrs. Bayard, Condit, and Howell, be the committee.

The Senate resumed, as in committee of the whole, the bill extending the time of certain patents granted to Robert Fulton; and the bill was amended, and the President reported it to the House accordingly.

The following written message was received from the President of the United States, by Mr. Coles, his Secretary:

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States:

I lay before Congress copies of certain documents which remain in the Department of State. They prove that, at a recent period, whilst the United States, notwithstanding the wrongs sustained by them, ceased not to observe the laws of peace and neutrality towards Great Britain, and in the midst of amicable professions and negotiations on the part of the British government, through its public minister here, a secret agent of that government was employed in certain states, more especially at the seat of government in Massachusetts, in fomenting disaffection to the constituted authorities of the nation, and in intrigues with the disaffected, for the purpose of bringing about resistance to the laws, and eventually, in concert with a British force, of destroying the Union, and forming the eastern part thereof into a political connection with Great Britain.

In addition to the effect which the discovery of such a procedure ought to have on the public councils, it will not fail to render more dear to the hearts of all good citizens that happy Union of these states, which, under Divine Providence, is the guaranty of their liberties, their safety, their tranquillity, and their prosperity.

JAMES MADISON.

March 9, 1812.

The message and documents therein referred to were read.

On motion, by Mr. Campbell, of Tennessee,

Ordered, That one thousand copies of the message and documents be printed for the use of the Senate; and,

After the consideration of Executive and confidential business,

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock to-morrow morning; to which time the several orders of the day were postponed.

FRIDAY, APRIL 10, 1812.

The amendments to the bill, entitled "An act supplementary to 'An act making provision for arming and equipping the whole body of the militia of the United States,'" having been reported by the committee correctly engrossed, the bill was read a third time as amended; and,

On motion, by Mr. Pope,

The blank was filled with 300,000 dollars.

Resolved, That this bill pass with amendments.

Ordered, That the Secretary request the concurrence of the House of Representatives therein.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. Magruder, their Clerk:

Mr. President: The President of the United States, on the 8th instant, approved and signed "An act for the admission of the state of Louisiana into the Union, and to extend the laws of the United States to the said state;" "An act in addition to the act, entitled 'An act to raise an additional military force,' passed January 11th, 1812;" "An act for the relief of Thomas Wilson;" also "An act for the relief of Thomas Orr."

The bill which hath passed the two Houses of Congress at the present session, entitled "An act providing for the trial of all causes pending in the respective district courts of the United States, in case of the absence or disability of the judges thereof," and presented to the President of the United States for his approbation, hath been returned by the President of the United States, with the following objections:

"Because the additional services imposed by the bill on the justices of the supreme court of the United States, are to be performed by them rather in the quality of other judges of other courts, namely, judges of the district courts, than in the quality of justices of the supreme court. They are to hold the said district courts, and to do and perform all acts relating to the said courts which are by law required of the district judges. The bill, therefore, virtually appoints, for the time, the justices of the supreme court to other distinct offices, to which, if compatible with their original offices, they ought to be appointed by another than the legislative authority, in pursuance of legislative provisions authorizing the appointments.

"Because the appeal allowed by law from the decision of the district courts to the circuit courts, whilst it corroborates the construction which regards a judge of the one court, as clothed with a new office, by being constituted a judge of the other, submits for correction erroneous judgments, not to superior or other judges, but to the erring individual himself, acting as sole judge in the appellate court.

"Because the additional services to be required may, by distances of place, and by the casualties contemplated by the bill, become disproportionate to the strength and health of the justices who are to perform them, the additional services being, moreover, entitled to no additional compensation, nor the additional expenses incurred, to reimbursement. In this view, the bill appears to be contrary to equity, as well as a precedent for modifications and extensions of judicial services, encroaching on the constitutional tenure of judicial offices.

"Because, by referring to the President of the United States questions of disability in the district judges, and of the unreasonableness of delaying the suits or causes pending in the district courts, and leaving it with him in such cases to require the justices of the supreme court to perform additional services, the bill introduces an unsuitable relation of members of the judiciary department to a discretionary authority of the executive department.

“JAMES MADISON.”

And the House of Representatives, where the bill originated, have taken the question in the constitutional way, and have

The following written message was received from the President of the United States, by Mr. Coles, his Secretary; which was read, as follows:

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States:

Among the incidents to the unexampled increase and expanding interests of the American nation, under the fostering influence of free constitutions and just laws, has been a corresponding accumulation of duties in the several departments of the government; and this has been necessarily the greater in consequence of the peculiar state of our foreign relations, and the connection of these with our internal administration.

The extensive and multiplied preparations into which the United States are at length driven for maintaining their violated rights, have caused this augmentation of business to press on the Department of War particularly, with a weight disproportionate to the powers of any single officer, with no other aids than are authorized by existing laws. With a view to a more adequate arrangement for the essential objects of that department, I recommend to the early consideration of Congress a provision for two subordinate appointments therein, with such compensations annexed as may be reasonably expected by citizens duly qualified for the important functions which may be properly assigned to them.

JAMES MADISON.

April 20, 1812.

Mr. Dana, from the committee appointed on the subject, reported in part, a bill concerning merchant vessels armed for defence, and the bill was read.

Ordered, That it pass to the second reading.

On the question, Shall this bill be engrossed and read a third time?

It was determined in the affirmative.

The following written message was received from the President of the United States, by Mr. Coles, his Secretary:

To the Senate of the United States:

I transmit to the Senate a report of the Secretary of State, complying with their resolution of the 4th of March last.

JAMES MADISON.

April 23, 1812.

The message and report therein referred to were read.

After the consideration of the Executive business,

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock to-morrow morning; to which time the several orders of the day were postponed.

FRIDAY, APRIL 24, 1812.

The bill in addition to the act to regulate the laying out and making a road from Cumberland, in the state of Maryland, to the state of Ohio, having been reported by the committee correctly engrossed, was read a third time.

Resolved, That this bill pass, and that the title thereof be "An act in addition to the act to regulate the laying out and making a road from Cumberland, in the state of Maryland, to the state of Ohio."

The bill to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to issue grants and perfect titles on certain entries and locations of land therein described was read the second time.

The bill respecting associations for maritime security was read the second time.

Mr. Smith, of Maryland, reported, from the committee to whom was referred the memorial of Peter Hoffman, and others, owners of the ship William,

That the petitioners state that the said ship was laden with flour, between the 18th and 27th of March, cleared out on the 31st, and actually sailed on the 1st of April, on her intended voyage to Cadiz; that they had no knowledge of the intention of laying an embargo, either while loading or at the time of the sailing of said ship; that, from contrary winds and weather, she was detained in the Chesapeake until the 10th of April, when, at the distance of four leagues from Cape Henry, she was detained by the revenue cutter Jefferson, and ordered back to Baltimore, where she now lies; all which is proved to the satisfaction of the committee.

The committee, however, are of opinion that the case is not such as ought to induce the Senate to grant the prayer of the petition; they therefore recommend that the petitioners have leave to withdraw their memorial; and the report was agreed to.

The Senate resumed, as in committee of the whole, the consideration of the bill, entitled "An act authorizing the departure of ships and vessels from the ports and harbors of the United States in certain cases;" and

Ordered, That it pass to a third reading.

Mr. Pope submitted the following motion for consideration:

Whereas, the conduct of the French government, in failing to make compensation for the property of the citizens of the United States, seized and confiscated under the Rambouillet decree, in the year 1810, in excluding from France, by enormous discriminating duties, our tobacco and cotton, the principal articles of export in the southern and southwestern parts of the United States, contrary to our just expectations, authorized by the assurances of her minister; besides granting licenses to carry on a trade from certain ports of the United States, so disrespectful to the feelings, so derogatory to the sovereignty of an independent nation; and the recent and repeated aggressions of her public and private armed vessels on the lawful commerce of the United States; demand, from the impartiality, honor, and dignity of this government, a disavowal of the arrangement made with her, which took effect on the 2d day of November, 1810, a measure calculated to inspire general confidence and respect, and to convince every true American that the object of his government is, to unite the people in a manly American effort to resist foreign aggression: And, whereas, many of our citizens, under an expectation, or, at least, a hope, of a change in our relations with Great Britain, have, in the course of trade, acquired property abroad not admissible by existing laws into the United States, the importation of which it is reasonable and expedient to permit; expedient, because it will not only prevent injuries and loss to many of our citizens, but aid our finances, cheapen the public supplies until a sufficiency can be procured of home manufacture, and lessen the necessity of internal taxes to carry on the war in which we may be engaged with Great Britain: therefore,

Resolved, That the act, entitled "An act concerning the commercial intercourse between the United States and Great Britain and France, and their dependencies, and for other purposes," passed on the first day of May, 1810, except the ——— section thereof; all the force and effect of the President's proclamation, issued in virtue thereof, on the ——— day of ——— in the same year; and the act, entitled "An act supplementary to the act, entitled 'An act concerning the commercial intercourse between the United States and Great Britain and France, and their dependencies, and for other purposes,'" passed on the 2d day of March, 1811, ought to be repealed, annulled, and set aside; and that a committee be appointed to bring in a bill for that purpose.

After the consideration of Executive business,

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock on Monday morning; to which time the several orders of the day were postponed.

Resolved, That the bill and amendment be postponed to the first Monday in October next.

Ordered, That the Secretary notify the House of Representatives accordingly.

The bill, entitled "An act authorizing the cutting and making a canal from the river Potomac around the west end of the dam or causeway from Mason's island, and for other purposes," was read a third time as amended.

Resolved, That this bill pass with amendments.

Ordered, That the Secretary request the concurrence of the House of Representatives in the amendments.

The Senate resumed the consideration of the resolution reported by the committee on the memorial of General James Wilkinson, which is as follows:

Resolved, That the proper accounting officer of the Department of War be directed, in the settlement of General Wilkinson's account, to place to his credit the sum of four thousand and thirty-six dollars seventy-seven cents.

And the resolution was agreed to; and Ordered, That it be recommitted to the original committee, with instruction to bring in a bill accordingly.

The Senate resumed, as in committee of the whole, the consideration of the bill to revive and continue in force, for a limited time, an act, entitled "An act to provide for the refugees from the British provinces of Canada and Nova Scotia, and for other purposes," together with the amendments reported thereto by the select committee; and having agreed to the amendments, the President reported the bill to the House accordingly.

On the question, Shall this bill be engrossed and read a third time as amended?

It was determined in the affirmative.

After the consideration of the Executive and confidential business,

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock to-morrow morning; to which time the several orders of the day were postponed.

FRIDAY, JUNE 12, 1812.

Mr. Gaillard presented sundry resolutions, signed by John Geddes, chairman, adopted at a numerous meeting of the citizens of Charleston, in the state of South Carolina, approbatory of the measures of the general government for the maintenance of the national honor and the preservation of its dignity and independence; and the resolutions were read.

On motion, by Mr. Gaillard,

Ordered, That they be printed for the use of the Senate.

Mr. Giles presented a memorial, signed by a great number of the inhabitants of the city of Richmond and town of Manchester, deprecating the calamities of war, but expressing their opinion that, if peace cannot be procured with honor, and war is inevitable, it ought to be declared, not against Great Britain only, but against both Great Britain and France; and the memorial was read.

Mr. Lloyd presented a resolution of the House of Representatives of Massachusetts, passed June 2d, inst. expressing their opinion "that an offensive war against Great Britain, under the present circumstances of this country, would be, in the highest degree, impolitic, unnecessary, and ruinous;" also, a memorial of the said House of Representatives, passed by a majority of one hundred and sixty-six, on the same subject; and the resolution and memorial were read.

On motion, by Mr. Lloyd,

Ordered, That they be printed for the use of the Senate.

The Senate resumed, as in committee of the whole, the consideration of the bill, entitled "An act authorizing the remission of forfeited recognizances within the District of Columbia."

Ordered, That it pass to a third reading.

The bill to revive and continue in force, for a limited time, an act, entitled "An act further to provide for the refugees from the British provinces of Canada and Nova Scotia, and for other purposes," passed the 24th day of February, 1810, having been reported by the committee correctly engrossed, was read a third time.

Resolved, That this bill pass, and that the title thereof be "An act further to provide for the refugees from the British provinces of Canada and Nova Scotia, and for other purposes."

Ordered, That the Secretary request the concurrence of the House of Representatives in this bill.

The resolution requesting the state of Georgia to assent to the formation of two states of the Mississippi territory was read a third time.

Resolved, That this resolution pass.

Ordered, That the Secretary notify the House of Representatives accordingly.

On motion, by Mr. Reed,

Resolved, That the bill, entitled "An act for the relief of Lieutenant Colonel William D. Beall," be referred to a select committee, to consider and report thereon.

Ordered, That Messrs. Reed, Lambert, and German, be the committee.

The following written message was received from the President of the United States, by Mr. Coles, his Secretary:

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States:

I transmit, for the information of Congress, copies of letters which have passed between the Secretary of State and the Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of Great Britain.

JAMES MADISON.

June 11, 1812.

The message and copies therein mentioned were read.

After the consideration of confidential business,

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock to-morrow morning; to which time the several orders of the day were postponed.

SATURDAY, JUNE 13, 1812.

Mr. Varnum reported, from the committee, that they had examined and found duly enrolled the bill, entitled "An act making further provision for settling the claims to land in the territory of Missouri."

Mr. Gregg, from the committee to whom the subject was recommitted for the purpose, reported a bill for the relief of James Wilkinson; and the bill was read.

Ordered, That it pass to the second reading.

Mr. Gregg, from the committee to whom was referred the bill, entitled "An act for the relief of Clement B. Penrose," reported it without amendment; and,

On his motion,

The bill was considered as in committee of the whole; and, no amendment having been proposed,

Ordered, That it pass to a third reading.

Mr. Smith, of Maryland, from the committee appointed on the subject, reported a bill supplementary to the act, entitled "An act to authorize a detachment from the militia of the United States;" and the bill was read.

Ordered, That it pass to the second reading.

The bill, entitled "An act authorizing the remission of forfeited recognizances within the District of Columbia," was read a third time.

Resolved, That this bill pass.

Ordered, That the Secretary notify the House of Representatives accordingly.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. Magruder, their Clerk:

Mr. President: The President of the United States, on the 10th instant, approved and signed "An act to extend the time for exporting, with privilege of drawback, goods, wares, and merchandise, entitled thereto by law;" "An act for the relief of William Garrard;" also, "An act supplemental to an act, entitled 'An act for dividing the Indiana territory into two separate governments.'"

The House of Representatives agree to the amendments of the Senate to the bill, entitled "An act authorizing the cutting and making a canal from the river Potomac around the west end of the dam or causeway from Mason's island, and for other purposes."

The Speaker of the House of Representatives having signed an enrolled bill, I am directed to bring it to the Senate for the signature of their President. And he withdrew.

The President signed the enrolled bill last reported to have been examined, and it was delivered to the committee, to be laid before the President of the United States.

Mr. Smith, of Maryland, presented a memorial, signed by Charles Carroll, of Carrollton, and a large number of others, inhabitants of Ann Arundel county, in the state of Maryland, deprecating the declaration of war with Great Britain, and stating their reasons at large against the measure; and the memorial was read.

After the consideration of confidential business,

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock on Monday morning; to which time the several orders of the day were postponed.

MONDAY, JUNE 15, 1812.

Mr. Varnum reported, from the committee, that, on the 13th instant, they laid before the President of the United States the enrolled bill, entitled "An act making further provision for settling the claims to land in the territory of Missouri."

On motion, by Mr. Bayard,

Resolved, That it be referred to a select committee, to consider and report thereon.

Ordered, That Messrs. Bayard, Smith, of Maryland, and Worthington, be the committee.

The injunction of secrecy thereon having been removed,

On motion, by Mr. Anderson,

Ordered, That twelve hundred copies of the confidential message of the President of the United States of the first of June instant, be printed for the use of the Senate.

After the consideration of the confidential and Executive business,

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock to-morrow morning; to which time the several orders of the day were postponed.

Certain confidential proceedings of the Senate, since first June, are as follow, the injunction of secrecy having been removed:

MONDAY, JUNE 1, 1812.

A confidential message was received from the President of the United States, by Mr. Coles, his Secretary:

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States:

I communicate to Congress certain documents, being a continuation of those heretofore laid before them, on the subject of our affairs with Great Britain.

Without going back beyond the renewal, in 1803, of the war in which Great Britain is engaged, and omitting unrepaid wrongs of inferior magnitude, the conduct of her government presents a series of acts hostile to the United States as an independent and neutral nation.

British cruizers have been in the continued practice of violating the American flag on the great highway of nations, and of seizing and carrying off persons sailing under it; not in the exercise of a belligerent right, founded on the law of nations against an enemy, but of a municipal prerogative over British subjects. British jurisdiction is thus extended to neutral vessels, in a situation where no laws can operate but the law of nations, and the laws of the country to which the vessels belong; and a self redress is assumed, which, if British subjects were wrongfully detained and alone concerned, is that substitution of force for a resort to the responsible sovereign, which falls within the definition of war. Could the seizure of British subjects, in such cases, be regarded as within the exercise of a belligerent right, the acknowledged laws of war, which forbid an article of captured property to be adjudged without a regular investigation before a competent tribunal, would imperiously demand the fairest trial where the sacred rights of persons were at issue. In place of such a trial, these rights are subjected to the will of every petty commander.

The practice, hence, is so far from affecting British subjects alone, that, under the pretext of searching for these, thousands of American citizens, under the safeguard of public law, and of their national flag, have been torn from their country, and from every thing dear to them; have been dragged on board ships of war of a foreign nation, and exposed, under the severities of their discipline, to be exiled to the most distant and deadly crimes, to risk their lives in the battles of their oppressors, and to be the melancholy instruments of taking away those of their own brethren.

Against this crying enormity, which Great Britain would be so prompt to avenge if committed against herself, the United States have in vain exhausted remonstrances and expostulations; and that no proof might be wanting of their conciliatory dispositions, and no pretext left for a continuance of the practice, the British government was formally assured of the readiness of the United States to enter into arrangements, such as could not be rejected if the recovery of British subjects were the real and the sole object. The communication passed without effect.

British cruisers have been in the practice also of violating the rights and the peace of our coasts. They hover over and harass our entering and departing commerce. To the most insulting pretensions, they have added the most lawless proceedings in our very harbors: and have wantonly spilt American blood within the sanctuary of our territorial jurisdiction. The principles and rules enforced by that nation when a neutral nation, against armed vessels of belligerents hovering near her coasts and disturbing her commerce, are well known. When called on, nevertheless, by the United States, to punish the greater offences committed by her own vessels, her government has bestowed on their commanders additional marks of honor and confidence.

Under pretended blockades, without the presence of an adequate force, and sometimes without the practicability of applying one, our commerce has been plundered in every sea; the great staples of our country have been cut off from their legitimate markets; and a destructive blow aimed at our agricultural and maritime interests. In aggravation of these predatory measures, they have been considered as in force from the dates of their notification; a retrospective effect being thus added, as has been done in other important cases, to the unlawfulness of the course pursued. And to render the outrage the more signal, these mock blockades have been reiterated and enforced in the face of official communications from the British government, declaring, as the true definition of a legal blockade, "that particular ports must be actually invested, and previous warning given to vessels bound to them, not to enter."

Not content with these occasional expedients for laying waste our neutral trade, the cabinet of Great Britain resorted, at length, to the sweeping system of blockades, under the name of orders in council; which has been moulded and managed as might best suit its political views, its commercial jealousies, or the avidity of British cruisers.

To our remonstrances against the complicated and transcendent injustice of this innovation, the first reply was, that the orders were reluctantly adopted by Great Britain as a necessary retaliation on decrees of her enemy, proclaiming a general blockade of the British isles at a time when the naval force of that enemy dared not to issue from his own ports. She was reminded, without effect, that her own prior blockades, unsupported by an adequate naval force actually applied and continued, were a bar to this plea: that executed edicts against millions of our property could not be retaliation on edicts confessedly impossible to be executed; that retaliation, to be just, should fall on the party setting the guilty example, not on an innocent party, which was not even chargeable with an acquiescence in it.

When deprived of this flimsy veil for a prohibition of our trade with her enemy, by the repeal of his prohibition of our trade with Great Britain, her cabinet, instead of a corresponding repeal, or a practical discontinuance of its orders, formally avowed a determination to persist in them against the United States, until the markets of her enemy should be laid open to British products; thus, asserting an obligation on a neutral power to require one belligerent to encourage, by its internal regulations, the trade of another belligerent; contradicting her own practice towards all nations, in peace as well as in war; and betraying the insincerity of those professions which inculcated a belief that, having resorted to her orders with regret, she was anxious to find an occasion for putting an end to them.

Abandoning, still more, all respect for the neutral rights of the United States, and for its own consistency, the British government now demands, as prerequisites to a repeal of its orders, as they relate to the United States, that a formality should be observed in the repeal of the French decrees, no wise necessary to their termination, nor exemplified by British usage; and that the French repeal, besides including that portion of the decrees which operate within a territorial jurisdiction, as well as that which operates on the high seas, against the commerce of the United States, should not be a single and special repeal in relation to the United States, but should be extended to whatever other neutral nations, unconnected with them, may be affected by those decrees. And, as an additional insult, they are called on for a formal disavowal of conditions and pretensions advanced by the French government, for which the United States are so far from having made themselves responsible, that, in official explanations, which have been published to the world, and in a correspondence of the American Minister at London with the British Minister for Foreign Affairs, such a responsibility was explicitly and emphatically disclaimed.

It has become, indeed, sufficiently certain, that the commerce of the United States is to be sacrificed, not as interfering with the belligerent rights of Great Britain; not as supplying the wants of her enemies, which she herself supplies; but as interfering with the monopoly which she covets for her own commerce and navigation. She carries on a war against the lawful commerce of a friend, that she may the better carry on a commerce with an enemy; a commerce polluted by the forgeries and perjuries, which are, for the most part, the only passports by which it can succeed.

Anxious to make every experiment, short of the last resort of injured nations, the United States have withheld from Great Britain, under successive modifications, the benefits of a free intercourse with their market, the loss of which could not but outweigh the profits accruing from her restrictions of our commerce with other nations. And to entitle these experiments to the more favorable consideration, they were so framed as to enable her to place her adversary under the exclusive operation of them. To these appeals her government has been equally inflexible, as if willing to make sacrifices of every sort, rather than yield to the claims of justice, or renounce the errors of a false pride. Nay, so far were the attempts carried to overcome the attachment of the British cabinet to its unjust edicts, that it received every encouragement within the competency of the Executive branch of our government, to expect that a repeal of them would be followed by a war between the United States and France, unless the French edicts should also be repealed. Even this communication, although silencing forever the plea of a disposition in the United States to acquiesce in those edicts, originally the sole plea for them, received no attention.

If no other proof existed of a pre-determination of the British government against a repeal of its orders, it might be found in the correspondence of the Minister Plenipotentiary of the United States, at London, and the British Secretary for Foreign Affairs, in 1810, on the question whether the blockade of May, 1806, was considered as in force, or as not in force. It had been ascertained that the French government, which urged this blockade as the ground of its Berlin decree, was willing, in the event of its removal, to repeal that decree; which being followed by alternate repeals of the other offensive edicts, might abolish the whole system on both sides. This inviting opportunity for accomplishing an object so important to the United States, and professed so often to be the desire of both the belligerents, was made known to the British government. As that government admits that an actual application of an adequate force is necessary to the existence of a legal blockade, and it was notorious, that if such a force had ever been applied, its long discontinuance had annulled the blockade in question, there could be no sufficient objection on the part of Great Britain to a formal revocation of it; and no imaginable objection to a declaration of the fact, that the blockade did not exist. The declaration would have been consistent with her avowed principles of blockade; and would have enabled the United States to demand from France the pledged repeal of her decrees; either with success, in which case the way would have been opened for a general repeal of the belligerent edicts; or without success, in which case the United States would have been justified in turning their measures exclusively against France. The British government would, however, neither rescind the blockade, nor declare its non-existence; nor permit its non-existence to be inferred and affirmed by the American plenipotentiary. On the contrary, by representing the blockade to be comprehended in the orders in council, the United States were compelled so to regard it, in their subsequent proceedings.

There was a period when a favorable change in the policy of the British cabinet was justly considered as established. The Minister Plenipotentiary of his Britannic Majesty here proposed an adjustment of the differences more immediately endangering the harmony of the two countries. The proposition was accepted with the promptitude and cordiality, corresponding with the invariable professions of this government. A foundation appeared to be laid for a sincere and lasting reconciliation. The prospect, however, quickly vanished. The whole proceeding was disavowed by the British government without any explanations, which could, at that time, repress the belief, that the disavowal proceeded from a spirit of hostility to the commercial rights and prosperity of the United States. And it has since come into proof that at the very moment, when the public minister was holding the language of friendship, and inspiring confidence in the sincerity of the negotiation with which he was charged, a secret agent of his government was employed in intrigues, having for their object a subversion of our government, and a dismemberment of our happy Union.

In reviewing the conduct of Great Britain towards the United States, our attention is necessarily drawn to the warfare just renewed by the savages on one of our extensive frontiers; a warfare which is known to spare neither age nor sex, and to be distinguished by features peculiarly shocking to humanity. It is difficult to account for the activity and combinations which have for some time been developing themselves among tribes in constant intercourse with British traders and garrisons, without connecting their hostility with that influence, and without recollecting the authenticated examples of such interpositions, heretofore furnished by the officers and agents of that government.

Such is the spectacle of injuries and indignities which have been heaped on our country; and such the crisis which its unexampled forbearance and conciliatory efforts have not been able to avert. It might at least have been expected that an enlightened nation, if less urged by moral obligations, or invited by friendly dispositions on the part of the United States, would have found, in its true interest alone, a sufficient motive to respect their rights and their tranquillity on the high seas; that an enlarged policy would have favored that free and general circulation of commerce in which the British nation is at all times interested, and which, in times war, is the best alleviation of its calamities to herself, as well as to other belligerents; and, more especially, that the British cabinet would not, for the sake of a precarious and surreptitious intercourse with hostile markets, have persevered in a course of measures, which necessarily put at hazard the invaluable market of a great and growing country, disposed to cultivate the mutual advantages of an active commerce.

Other counsels have prevailed. Our moderation and conciliation have had no other effect than to encourage perseverance and to enlarge pretensions. We behold our seafaring citizens still the daily victims of lawless violence, committed on the great common and highway of nations, even within sight of the country which owes them protection. We behold our vessels, freighted with the products of our soil and industry, or returning with the honest proceeds of them, wrested from their lawful destinations, confiscated by prize courts, no longer the organs of public law, but the instruments of arbitrary edicts, and their unfortunate crews dispersed and lost, or forced or inveigled in British ports into British fleets; whilst arguments are employed in support of these aggressions, which have no foundation but in a principle equally supporting a claim to regulate our external commerce in all cases whatsoever.

We behold, in fine, on the side of Great Britain, a state of war against the United States; and on the side of the United States, a state of peace towards Great Britain.

Whether the United States shall continue passive under these progressive usurpations, and these accumulating wrongs; or, opposing force to force in defence of their national rights, shall commit a just cause into the hands of the Almighty Disposer of events, avoiding all connections which might entangle it in the contests or views of other powers, and preserving a constant readiness to concur in an honorable re-establishment of peace and friendship, is a solemn question, which the constitution wisely confides to the legislative department of the government. In recommending it to their early deliberations, I am happy in the assurance, that the decision will be worthy the enlightened and patriotic councils of a virtuous, a free, and a powerful nation.

Having presented this view of the relations of the United States with Great Britain, and of the solemn alternative growing out of them, I proceed to remark that the communications last made to Congress on the subject of our relations with France, will have shown, that, since the revocation of her decrees, as they violated the neutral rights of the United States, her government has authorized illegal captures by its privateers and public ships; and that other outrages have been practised on our vessels and our citizens. It will have been seen, also, that no indemnity had been provided, or satisfactorily pledged, for the extensive spoliations committed under the violent and retrospective orders of the French government against the property of our citizens seized within the jurisdiction of France. I abstain, at this time, from recommending to the consideration of Congress definitive measures with respect to that nation, in the expectation, that the result of unclosed discussions between our minister plenipotentiary at Paris and the French government, will speedily enable Congress to decide, with greater advantage, on the course due to the rights, the interests, and the honor, of our country.

JAMES MADISON.

Washington, June 1, 1812.

The message and documents therein referred to were read. And,

On motion, by Mr. Anderson,

Resolved, That they be referred to a select committee, to consist of seven members, to consider and report thereon by bill or otherwise.

Ordered, That Messrs. Anderson, Smith, of Maryland, Leib, Campbell, of Tennessee, Howell, Lloyd, and Taylor, be the committee.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 3, 1812.

On motion, by Mr. Bayard,

Ordered, That the confidential message of the President of the United States, of the 1st instant, be printed for the use of the Senate, under an injunction of secrecy.

FRIDAY, JUNE 5, 1812.

A confidential message was received from the House of Representatives, by Messrs. Macon and Findley, two of their members; Mr. Macon, chairman:

Mr. President: The House of Representatives have passed a bill, entitled "An act declaring war between Great Britain and her dependencies, and the United States and their territories;" in which they ask the concurrence of the Senate; and request that the bill be considered confidentially. And they withdrew.

An act declaring war between Great Britain and her dependencies, and the United States and their territories.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That war be, and the same is hereby, declared to exist between Great Britain and her dependencies, and the United States and their territories; and that the President of the United States is hereby authorized to use the whole land and naval force of the United States to carry the same into effect; and to issue to private armed vessels of the United States, commissions, or letters of marque and general reprisal, in such form as he shall think proper, and under the seal of the United States, against the vessels, goods, and effects, of the government of Great Britain, of its subjects, and of all persons inhabiting within any of its territories or possessions.

On motion,

The bill was twice read by unanimous consent; and,

On motion, by Mr. Leib,

Ordered, That it be referred to the committee appointed the first instant on the confidential message of the President of the United States of the same date, to consider and report thereon.

MONDAY, JUNE 8, 1812.

Mr. Anderson, from the committee to whom was referred the bill, entitled "An act declaring war between Great Britain and her dependencies, and the United States and their territories," reported the bill with amendments.

The committee also reported sundry communications, confidentially made to them, from the Treasury and War Departments on the subject.

On motion, by Mr. Lloyd,

Ordered, That the Secretary furnish copies of the said communications to such Senators as may require them.

TUESDAY, JUNE 9, 1812.

On motion, by Mr. Anderson,

The bill, entitled "An act declaring war between Great Britain and her dependencies, and the United States and their territories," was considered as in committee of the whole. Mr. Gaillard was requested to take the chair; and, after debate,

A motion was made, by Mr. Gregg, that the bill be recommitted, for further amendment, to the committee who have under consideration the message of the President of the United States of the first June.

And, after debate, the President resumed the chair, and the Senate adjourned.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 10, 1812.

Mr. Gaillard was requested to take the chair.

The Senate resumed, as in committee of the whole, the bill, entitled "An act declaring war between Great Britain and her dependencies, and the United States and their territories;" and,

Mr. Gregg, by permission, amended his motion for recommitting the bill to the committee appointed on the confidential message of the President of the United States; of the first June, as follows:

And, after debate, the President resumed the chair, and the Senate adjourned.

“The President of the United States shall be, and he is hereby, authorized, from and after the —— day of —— next ensuing, to cause reprisals to be made upon the public and private ships and vessels, goods, and merchandisc, belonging to the crown of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, or to the subjects thereof, which may be found on the high seas or elsewhere, after the said —— day of —— next, excepting such ships, vessels, or property, as now are, or may, before the said — day of — next, be, within the ports and harbors, or under the control, of the United States, and all ships, vessels, or property, within the jurisdiction of any power with whom the United States are not engaged in war; and, for the purposes aforesaid, to instruct the commanders of the public armed vessels which are or which shall be employed in the service of the United States, to subdue, seize, and take, any armed or other British vessel, belonging to the said United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, or to the subjects thereof, which shall be found within the jurisdictional limits of the United States, or elsewhere, on the high seas as aforesaid. And such captured vessel, with her apparel, guns, and appurtenances, and the goods or effects which shall be found on board the same, being British property, shall be brought within some port of the United States, and shall be duly proceeded against and condemned as forfeited, and shall accrue and be distributed as by law is or shall be provided, respecting the captures which shall be made by the public armed vessels of the United States.

“SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That the President of the United States shall be, and he is hereby, authorized to grant, to the owners of private armed ships and vessels of the United States, who shall make application therefor, commissions, in the form which he shall direct, and under the seal of the United States; and such private armed vessels, when duly commissioned as aforesaid, shall have the same license, and authority for the subduing, seizing, and capturing any armed or other British vessel belonging to the crown of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, or to the subjects thereof, and for the recapturing of the vessels, goods, and effects, of the people of the United States, as the public armed vessels of the United States by law have, and shall be in like manner subject to such instructions as shall be ordered by the President of the United States, in conformity with the established law of nations, and the treaties and laws of the United States, for the regulation of their conduct; and the commissions which shall be granted as aforesaid shall be revocable at the pleasure of the President of the United States.

“SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That every person intending to set forth and employ an armed vessel, and applying for the commission as aforesaid, shall produce, in writing, the name, and a suitable description of the tonnage and force, of the vessel, and the name and place of residence of each owner concerned therein, the number of the crew, and the name of the commander and the two officers next in rank appointed for such vessel; which writing shall be signed by the person or persons making such application, and filed with the Secretary of State, or shall be delivered to any other officer or person who shall be employed to deliver out such commissions, to be by him transmitted to the Secretary of State.

“SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That, before any commission as aforesaid shall be issued, the owner or owners of the ship or vessel for which the same shall be requested, and the commander thereof for the time being, shall give bond to the United States, with at least two responsible sureties, not interested in such vessel, in the penal sum of — thousand dollars; or, if such vessel be provided with more than one hundred and fifty men, then in the penal sum of — thousand dollars, with condition that the owners, and officers, and crews, who shall be employed on board of such commissioned vessels, shall and will observe the treaties and laws of the United States, and the instructions which shall be given them as aforesaid for the regulation of their conduct, and will satisfy all damages and injuries which shall be done or committed contrary to the tenor thereof by such vessel, during her commission, and to deliver up the same when revoked by the President of the United States.

“SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That all public and private ships and vessels, goods, and merchandise, belonging to the crown of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, or to the subjects thereof, together with their apparel, guns, and appurtenances, which shall be found on board the same, being British property, and which shall be captured by any private armed vessel or vessels of the United States, duly commissioned as aforesaid, shall be forfeited, and shall accrue to the owners thereof and the officers and crews by whom such capture shall be made, and, on due condemnation had, shall be distributed according to any agreement which shall be between them, or, in failure of such agreement, then by the discretion of the court before whom such condemnation shall be.

“SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That all vessels, goods, and effects, the property of any citizen of the United States, or person resident therein, which shall be recaptured as aforesaid, shall be restored to the lawful owners upon payment by them respectively of a just and reasonable salvage, to be determined by the mutual agreement of the parties concerned, or by the decree of any court of the United States having maritime jurisdiction, according to the nature of each case: provided, that such allowance

“ SEC. 7. And be it further enacted, That, before breaking bulk of any vessel which shall be captured as aforesaid, or other disposal or conversion thereof, or of any articles which shall be found on board the same, such capture shall be brought into some port of the United States, and shall be libelled and proceeded against before the district court of the same district; and if, after a due course of proceeding, such capture shall be decreed as forfeited in the district court, or in the circuit court of the same district in the case of any appeal duly allowed, the same shall be delivered to the owners and captors concerned therein, or shall be publicly sold by the marshal of the same court, as shall be finally decreed and ordered by the court. And the same court, who shall have final jurisdiction of any libel or complaint of any capture as aforesaid, shall and may decree restitution in whole or in part, when the capture and restraint shall have been made without just cause as aforesaid; and if made without probable cause, or otherwise unreasonably, may order and decree damages and costs to the party injured, and for which the owners, officers, and crews, of the private armed vessel or vessels by which such unjust capture shall have been made, and, also, such vessel or vessels, shall be answerable and liable.

Amend the title, after the word "act," strike out the rest of the title, and insert, "authorizing reprisals against the crown of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and the subjects thereof;" and the report was read. Whereupon,

On motion, by Mr. Pope,

It was determined in the negative,

On motion, by Mr. Leib,

To amend the bill, as follows:

"After the word 'that,' in the third line, strike out to the end of the bill, and insert: "the President of the United States shall be, and he is hereby, authorized to cause reprisals to be made upon the public and private ships and vessels, goods, and merchandise, belonging to the crown of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, or to the subjects thereof, which may be found on the high seas or elsewhere, excepting such ships, vessels, or property, as now are, or may be, within the ports and harbors, or under the control, of the United States, and all ships, vessels, or property, within the jurisdiction of any power with whom the United States are not engaged in war; and for the purposes aforesaid to instruct the commanders of the public armed vessels which are or which shall be employed in the service of the United States to subdue, seize, and take, any armed or other British vessel, belonging to the said United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, or to the subjects thereof, which shall be found within the jurisdictional limits of the United States or elsewhere on the high seas as aforesaid: and such captured vessel, with her apparel, guns, and appurtenances, and the goods or effects which shall be found on board the same, being British property, shall be brought within some port of the United States, and shall be duly proceeded against and condemned as forfeited, and shall accrue and be distributed as by law is or shall be provided respecting the captures which shall be made by the public armed vessels of the United States.

"SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That the President of the United States shall be, and he is hereby, authorized to grant, to the owners of private armed ships and vessels of the United States, who shall make application therefor, commissions, in the form which he shall direct, and under the seal of the United States; and such private armed vessels, when duly commissioned as aforesaid, shall have the same licence and authority for the subduing, seizing, and capturing any armed or other British vessel belonging to the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, or to the subjects thereof, and for the recapture of the vessels, goods, and effects, of the people of the United States, as the public armed vessels of the United States may by law have; and shall be, in like manner, subject to such instructions as shall be ordered by the President of the United States, in conformity with the established law of nations, and the treaties and laws of the United States, for the regulation of their conduct: and the commissions which shall be granted as aforesaid shall be revocable at the pleasure of the President of the United States.

"SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That every person intending to set forth and employ an armed vessel, and applying for a commission as aforesaid, shall produce, in writing, the name, and a suitable description of the tonnage and force, of the vessel, and the name and place of residence of each owner concerned therein, the number of the crew, and the name of the commander and the two officers next in rank, appointed for such vessel; which writing shall be signed by the person or persons making such application, and filed with the Secretary of State, or shall be delivered to any other officer or person who shall be employed to deliver out such commissions, to be by him transmitted to the Secretary of State.

"SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That, before any commission as aforesaid shall be issued, the owner or owners of the ship or vessel for which the same shall be requested, and the commander thereof, for the time being, shall give bond to the United States, with at least two responsible sureties, not interested in such vessel, in the penal sum of ——— thousand dollars; or, if such vessel be provided with more than one hundred and fifty men, then in the penal sum of ——— thousand dollars; with condition that the owners and officers and crews who shall be employed on board of such commissioned vessel shall and will observe the treaties and laws of the United States, and the instructions which shall be given them for the regulation of their conduct; and will satisfy all damages and injuries which shall be done or committed contrary to the tenor thereof by such vessel during her commission, and to deliver up the same when revoked by the President of the United States.

"SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That all public and private ships and vessels, goods, and merchandise, belonging to the crown of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, or to the subjects thereof, together with their apparel, guns, and appurtenances, and any goods or effects which shall be found on board the same, being

British property, and which shall be captured by any private armed vessel or vessels of the United States, duly commissioned as aforesaid, shall be forfeited, and shall accrue to the owners thereof and the officers and crews by whom such capture shall be made; and, on due condemnation had, shall be distributed according to any agreement which shall be between them, or, in failure of such agreement, then by the discretion of the court before whom such condemnation shall be.

"SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That all vessels, goods, and effects, the property of any citizen of the United States, or person resident therein, which shall be recaptured as aforesaid, shall be restored to the lawful owners, upon payment by them, respectively, of a just and reasonable salvage, to be determined by the mutual agreement of the parties concerned, or by the decree of any court of the United States having maritime jurisdiction, according to the nature of each case: Provided, That such allowance shall not be less than one eighth, or exceeding one half, of the full value of such recapture, without any deduction. And such salvage shall be distributed to and among the owners, officers, and crews, of the private armed vessel or vessels entitled thereto, according to any agreement which shall be between them; or, in case of no agreement, then by the decree of the court who shall determine upon such salvage.

"SEC. 7. And be it further enacted, That, before breaking bulk of any vessel which shall be captured as aforesaid, or other disposal or conversion thereof, or of any articles which shall be found on board the same, such capture shall be brought into some port of the United States, and shall be libelled and proceeded against before the district court of the same district; and if, after a due course of proceedings, such capture shall be decreed as forfeited in the district court, or in the circuit court of the same district, in the case of any appeal duly allowed, the same shall be delivered to the owners and captors concerned therein, or shall be publicly sold by the marshal of the same court, as shall be finally decreed and ordered by the court; and the same court which shall have final jurisdiction of any libel or complaint of any capture as aforesaid, shall and may decree restitution, in whole or in part, when the capture and restraint shall have been made without just cause as aforesaid; and, if made without probable cause, or otherwise unreasonably, may order and decree damages and costs to the party injured, and for which the owners, officers, and crews, of the private armed vessel or vessels by which such unjust capture shall have been made, and also such vessel or vessels, shall be answerable and liable.

"SEC. 8. And be it further enacted, That all British subjects and others who shall be found acting on board any British vessel which shall be captured, or on board of any vessel of the United States which shall be recaptured as aforesaid, shall be reported to the collector of the port in which they shall first arrive, and shall be delivered to the custody of the marshal, or some civil or military officer of the United States, or of any state, in or near such port, who shall receive and take into custody the said subjects or persons for their safe-keeping and support, at the expense of the United States.

"SEC. 9. And be it further enacted, That, from and after the — day of — next, the President of the United States be, and he is hereby, authorized to employ the naval force of the United States to make reprisals upon the public and private armed vessels, goods, and merchandise, belonging to the Emperor of France and King of Italy, or his subjects, which may be found on the high seas and elsewhere, and to issue letters of marque and reprisal to the private armed ships or vessels of the United States against the vessels, subjects, and property, of the said Emperor of France and King of Italy, under the provisions and limitations contained in this act in respect to the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland; if, on or before the said — day of —, the said Emperor of France and King of Italy shall not give to the President of the United States satisfactory and unequivocal evidence of the repeal of the Berlin and Milan decrees, so far as they relate to the neutral commerce of the United States."
